FINED $25 FOR SERVING MEAT

The first conviction, under the 'Meatless Days' law, was registered on Tuesday, when P. Moth J. P. tacked a $25 fine, and costs, onto the Manager of the local hotel. It appears that while having his mid-day meal, Const. Bruce, who laid the charge, was served with meat, when fish should have been on tap. J. P. Moth imposed the minimum penalty.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

O. K. Smith Charged With Serious Offence

A case that has created considerable interest was given a second hearing, on Tuesday night, before J. P. Moth. Over a week ago O. K. Smith, who is charged with shooting several horses, belonging to Alf. McNeil, was up before J. P. Howard, Kirriemuir, who threw the case out. The Attorney General took the matter up and it was given another hearing.

After listening to the evidence of several witnesses the prisoner was committed for trial. Smith was taken to Ft. Saskatchewan, on Wednesday.

Five horses were shot, one of them dying.

SITTINGS OF THE EXEMPTION BOARD

The local Exemption Board is busy these days dealing with the numerous applications for exemption under the Military Service Act. This Board has over 500 cases to decide, and they handle 25 claims daily.

Up till last night the Board passed finally on 110 cases, a number of others being adjourned to future dates. Eight were ordered up for medical examination. The following men had their claims disallowed: Geo. F. Wright, W. F. Abernethy, Consort; Selmar Liknes, Albert Goodman, G. H. French, C. P. Blackley, Monitor.

Over $4000.00 has been subscribed to the Victory Loan, in Monitor, since Monday.

The big companies throughout Canada are all taking a big share of Victory Bonds, and the C. P. R. heads the list with $5,000,000. Buy yours NOW.

The Hollinshead Concert Co. will be here on Friday, Nov. 23 instead of on Saturday the 24th.

Your dollars will help to win the war. Invest them in a safe and sure thing. Victory Bonds. Buy early and often.

What Will Canada's Answer Be?

OVER in the sodden trenches amid the bursting shells and the roar of artillery where Canada's boys are fighting and dying.

—they are waiting for Canada's answer when the sale of Victory Bonds begins.

CANADA'S soldiers expect that we at homewill put up the millions they need to keep on fighting.

—the millions they must have to win Victory for freedom, home and Canada.

What answer will Canada make? What answer will you make?

Shall it be said that Canada spares not her sons from the sacrifice of battle, yet withholds her dollars to give them victory?

Rather will it be said that Canada once more, for the fourth time in three years, cheerfully puts up her millions upon millions for the cause of freedom, righteousness and justice.

Canada's answer must be,

—that the Canadian hand to the plow of Victory holds steadfast and firm.

—that Canada is in deadly earnest when she says the "last man and the last dollar."

That is the answer Canada will give to our boys in the trenches, our kinsmen in Britain, and our Allies everywhere.

That is the answer we will give to the Huns who thought and said that Canada would desert the Empire before she would fight or pay.

Every bond you buy is an answer. Let the millions of answers from Canada's loyal men and women make a chorus of Victory to ring around the world.

She looked; she closed the door and stood still, her hand holding the door as though she would protect the secret it had hidden. To look at her, she might have been Bluebeard's wife, discovering the dead women hanging in a row. But the closet was an ordinary hanging closet, with shelves at one side. The light of day admitted to it revealed a number of garments hanging from pegs; shelves full of hats and scarves, and veils and all sorts of feminine frippery. On the floor of the closet were rows of shoes, small and dainty. A pair of grey silk stockings lay hung between them. Some other pretty things had been thrust into their shelves by a hasty or careless hand. A grey dust lay over everything.

She stared at the contents of the closet, as though she saw a row of dead women hanging there. A noise at the outer door interrupted her. She looked scared out of life. Hastily she locked the closet door, dropped the keys in her pocket and went to open the door to Dolly, who was rapping sharply.

The girl was trembling. She had had a sudden fear that she might encounter Cooper in the corridor while she waited at the door.

She sprang into Kate Bartlett's arms like a frightened fawn, and the woman comforted her, feeling the terrified heart thump against her side while she held the girl.

"Oh, Kate," Dolly whispered, "I was so frightened when I could not find you nor get in. If I was to be left to him the mere terror would kill me."

"You shall not be left to him, my pretty girl," the woman said, smoothing back the hair which had lost so much of its life and lustre. "I shall wait no longer. This very day we shall make our escape. I could never forgive myself if I had waited too long."

They went downstairs, talking in whispers, silent as they passed Cooper's door. The escape was a simple matter, so long as he did not appear on the scene. Margot had the key of the gate or knew where it was kept. If she would not give it, then force must be used. Kate Bartlett had no doubt of her own power to overcome the frail little woman, although mad women like Margot could fight with desperate energy she had heard. The thing was to do it quietly, so that the man upstairs should not hear.

She was thinking how she should set about it with Margot, with whom she had been unable to establish any communication so far.

She opened the door of the salle a manger. There was no one there. The dusk was beginning to fall. She passed through the door that led to the scullery and looked out, averting her eyes carefully from the half-glass door and the woodshed. There was no one there. She glanced at the peg where Margot hung her cloak. It was empty. Margot was gone.

She sat down with a sudden sense of irrefragable calamity, turning her sick and dizzy. She had waited too long. It came over her that she had lost her moment. There was a movement in the room overhead where Cooper was. Something fell and was shattered to pieces. Was he coming down? She had waited too long. She listened with the ears of a hare. There was no further sound. For days she had known that he was steadily nearing the danger point.

Who should know if not she? She had waited. Why had she been such a fool as to wait? Oh, Lord have mercy! she cried voicelessly when she thought of the helpless girl in her charge. She had betrayed her trust. God help her, she had betrayed her trust!

There was a padding sound overhead as of stockings feet. She flew upstairs and listened at the door of Cooper's room. Her hand went to something in her breast and felt its comfortable coldness. One bullet for him, one for her, one for her child, if that must be. If there was only that way she was prepared to take it—the least she could do since she had waited too long. Oh, Lord, she had waited too long.

Not a sound. He must have lain down again. While she had listened she looked at her hands, dreading, seeing, yet not seeing them.

While the tension of her face and her acute listening relaxed she heard a sound downstairs. Someone was tapping on the front door, insistently, pre-emptorily. There was that in the sound of the quick, sharp tapping which suggested haste, yet haste that had a need of being stealthy.

Very quietly she crept downstairs, sending one look in the direction of Dolly's room, the door of which she knew was locked and bolted till she gave the familiar signal which would admit her. As she passed by a window it rattled ominously. The wind sighed outside, rose and fell, clapped its invisible wings and sank to quietness. There was going to be a storm.

She went on downstairs, something like hope stirring in her heart. Who could it be that knocked? Someone must have gained admittance. Perhaps after all, it was not too late. She had not waited too long. If but the child were safe, she did not care what became of her. Lord have mercy!

She opened the door, which flew back with a bang. The wind and rain came in her face. Outside stood Margot, carrying a lantern. She had come back again. The gate outside banged in the wind. So it was open. The way was free. If only her child were here, and not upstairs where at any moment Cooper might make his appearance! She measured Margot with her eye. What did the little mad creature want? How was she going to keep her quiet till they escaped, so that the man overhead should not hear, as he would hear if there was a struggle?

An amazing thing happened. The deaf and dumb woman spoke.

"Is the young lady ready?" she asked in a whisper. "It is time for her to go. I will tell you that I am not deaf and dumb. He said that I was to pretend that it was so. I had been to England and I know the English. Bring her at once, I will tell you. There is no time to explain, as you say."

Kate Bartlett fled upstairs, her heart beating in her side and a pulse thumping in her head so that she could hear nothing, though the house seemed full of sounds. She gave the five quick taps on the panel of the door. It seemed an eternity before she was admitted. Her heart kept crying, "Hurry! hurry!" and thumping in her side and her head.

"Come at once," she whispered. "The way is open. Take anything, anything. Your slippers. They will have to do. No give me your boots. You can put them on as soon as we are free of the house. Only, for heaven's sake, come. Oh, God help us!"

They stole softly downstairs. There was Margot waiting by the door with her lantern, wearing the scared look that came to her with the darkness.

They went out, closing the house door softly behind them. The room in the garble in which Cooper slept showed the light Kate had left there an hour or two before.

There was some sound in the house. The hanging of a door perhaps. Ah, that was it. They had forgotten to close the door of the damask room behind them. What folly! If Cooper were aroused he would know at once that they were gone. Out of the confusion of Kate Bartlett's thoughts one thing had emerged. She must lock the gate behind her on the chance that Cooper would have mislaid his key. It would give them a little time perhaps, if he should discover they had gone and follow them.

But to do that was impossible. Margot, as though the wits were frightened out of her, had fled through the gate and down the road that led to Audiganac and the sea. They could see her lantern, bobbing like a will of the wisp before them. Suddenly it went out.

They overtook her. She was panting and sobbing with fear. It was some time before they could reassure her, persuade her of their identity, that they were living people and friends. The night was starless. Except for the flashlight that lit sea and land for a second, to be followed by a more impenetrable darkness, all was obscurity.

Prairie Live Stock Increasing

The live stock outlook in Western Canada is very bright. Our farmers are making every effort to get more extensively into live stock.

The principal handicaps are lack of buildings, fences and capital. But wonderful progress is being made and these handicaps are being overcome. Our department of agriculture has already distributed eight cars of cows and heifers this year. These animals are sold to farmers on time. The high price of feed is having some effect, but there is a steady increase, and the desire to increase the numbers is universal.—Hon. W. C. Sutherland.

Save Slices of Bread

The department of agriculture estimates that if each of our 20,000,000 families throws away an ordinary slice of bread daily, the desire to waste for twenty-four hours is 875,000 pounds of flour, or over a million one-pound loaves. At this rate we would destroy yearly 15,000,000 barrels of flour or enough for 365,000,000 loaves of bread.—San Francisco Argonaut.

Lessons in Community And National Life

American School Children to Receive Instruction in Democracy

American school children will soon have put before them material for "education in democracy," at the request of President Wilson, through the co-operation of the food administrator and United States commissioner of Education, F. P. Claxton.

A series of bulletins entitled "Lessons in Community and National Life" will be issued to pupils of all schools, calling attention to the necessity for conservation of food and other national resources. They will serve the further purpose of training pupils in recognition of their rights and obligations in the democracy in which they live.

The food administrator has addressed a letter to school authorities, outlining the plan as follows:

"To the superintendents and principals of the schools of the United States:

"In keeping with the plan outlined by the president, the United States food administration will co-operate with the department of the interior in issuing through the bureau of education a series of bulletins which will contain 'Lessons in Community and National Life.' These lessons will serve the very urgent immediate purpose of calling attention to the necessity of conserving food and all other resources of the nation. They will serve at the same time the broader purpose of training pupils in the schools to recognize their rights and obligations in the co-operative society in which they live."

"I urge all school officers to promote with vigor this plan for the more definite and comprehensive teaching of democracy."

Note and Comment

The German officers are cautioning the men in the front lines not to get killed unnecessarily. From the large numbers who are surrendering, it looks as if the men had thought of that themselves.

Your dollar bills will beat Kaiser Bill. Buy Victory Bonds.

Gen. Haig firmly believes that peace can be obtained if it is earnestly fought for.

The Canadian Victory Loan is meeting with great success all over the Dominion, and it looks as if twice the amount called for will be subscribed.

It is expected that every home and family in Canada will have one or more of these bonds.

See the canvasser in your district, or call at the "Victory" office, in the Pioneer Store. Do it now!

A very representative and enthusiastic meeting of citizens of Wainwright and surrounding district was held in the Town Hall, last Thursday, for the purpose of considering the advisability of selecting a Union Candidate to represent the Federal Constituency of Battle River.

The prominent professional and business men and farmers of the town and district were in attendance and expressed their feelings regarding the forthcoming elections.

Mr. H. V. Fieldhouse in taking the chair struck the keynote of the meeting when he pointed out that there were two candidates in the field, Liberal and Conservative, both endorsed by party politics, and running on party tickets, with which the people were no longer satisfied. A convention he thought should be called for the purpose of selecting a Union Candidate, and either of the Candidates might be chosen if he were willing to sacrifice his party endorsement, or an entirely new man might be found.

J. W. Wood voicing the same sentiment, pointed out that as things stood at the present, the people would be expressing, on election day, old party feelings, and he was of the opinion that the Candidates should be endorsed at an open convention, now, and not at a convention held some two years ago.

After several speakers had been heard it was moved and seconded that an open convention be held at Wainwright on Nov. 17th, to bring out a Union Win-The-War Candidate, and that all the other portions of the constituency be consulted immediately and their co-operation secured.

A strong general committee of seven was appointed, vested with powers to carry forward all arrangements in connection with such open convention with all possible haste.

It was the feeling of the meeting that such a movement and such a candidate would meet with the whole-hearted support of every elector who has the best interests of the country at heart. These are the days when the selection of a Union Candidate cannot be left in the hands of any political party and hence Liberals, Conservatives, and others are agreed on the holding of this open convention.

Every polling division should be represented. Reduced railway rates are being offered, those attending should secure fares and standard certificates from station agents.

A GREAT DRAWING TEAM

By Augustus Bridle

A good drawing team is just as much of a joy to the man that owns it as it used to be in the bush-log days. We talk a good deal—some of us—about the great horses we used to handle the ribbons over in the bush, lifting out great loads of elm logs, sometimes 1,500 feet or 2,000, sometimes more according to the man who was telling it, from the stump to the skidroad and the concession line.

Certainly some of those teams could draw; and surely some of their drivers did use to be able to talk about it. But there are more good average hauling teams in the country now than there were in the bush days. Farmers have gone in for specializing on draughts and roadsters, because they understand that a poor team is bad economy when work has to be done in a hurry. Getting stuck with a load in the fields is a dead waste of time and of temper. We used to be stuck often in the old days with some of those poor teams picked up any old way at an auction sale. But a good span of Clydes or Percherons nowadays is a real piece of insurance against wasting time with stuck loads. The only thing that happens in that line with such horses is broken harness or a snapped doubletree.

Of course a good deal depended on the driver as it does now. One of the best drawing teams ever known in an Ontario county would pull like a tractor engine for the boss, but when it came to the hired man they saw-sawed and jumped in the collar like a pair of balky Texas steers. When the boss pulled the lines over them and yelled: "Git down together"—they got down, those Bob Hunters, and lifted the load—heavens how they could lift it! No matter what the load was, grain, or logs, or gravel; it came out of the hole on to the high-road, just by the simple trick of getting down together.

Just now the greatest hauling team ever known in Canada are engaged in lifting the biggest load that a team ever stood in front of. The load is:

$150,000,000 of Canadian Victory Bonds.

That's a tremendous load. The load is there alright. Canada has the money twice as much, ready to pile up for victory. It's a matter of lifting the load. It's a matter of what team is to do it, and who will be the driver.

What's the best team for this job?

The Canadian Farmer and the Government of Canada.

If those two can't lift a great part of that load, you might as well leave it alone.

Who is the driver?

A great boss named Victory.

United States Prepares

Entered War With Firm Determination to Do Their Part

The war may not be won in the air. The blows we shall presently strike on the land, together with our allies, may be the principal factor in the victory that is sure to come. We have a navy eager to get into the fray. But the American program for military aviation shows that we shall be ready, when the time comes, to combat with all the Taubes and Gothas the Germans can send aloft, to put new obstacles in the way of the German artillery, to pass over the enemy's lines, and let the Germans know that we have not entered the war without a firm determination to do our share in all the operations and the means to put it into effect.—New York Times

Germans Surprised in India

From a Letter from Ahmednagar, India, to the Springfield Republican

Some day I am going to send you a letter about the German prison camp here, but I must wait for sunny weather, so that I can take some snap shots to go with my letter. The camp is growing all the time, and I hope it will continue to grow. The latest additions arrived last Friday—two German airmen from Mesopotamia. New barracks are being put up and I hope that before long they will be filled with people from German East Africa. The last ones who came from that part of the world were amazed at being sent to Bombay—India had been revolted weeks before, so they had been told.

The life work of some men seems to be criticizing others.

Money in Sheep

Profitableness of Sheep Raising on Small Farms

An instance of the success that can be attained in sheep raising on small farms in Alberta is given in the case of Mr. H. Sykes, who has a 320-acre farm some ten miles northwest of Castor, Alberta. As a beginning Mr. Sykes secured sixty head of sheep four years ago. In the two succeeding years he raised about 100 lambs and sold seven old ewes. At lambing time this year his flock increased 100 per cent, in addition to which he had his wool clip, which he sold on the co-operative plan. With wool selling at more than sixty cents a pound and yearly wethers at from $12 to $13 a hundredweight, it is not difficult to realize how profitable sheep raising in Alberta is to the small farmer.

This farmer runs his sheep on the summer-fallowed land to cut out the weeds. In winter he keeps them in good order by giving them a good feed of prairie hay in the morning, with green feed in the evening, while during the day they pick around the straw stacks. Acres of poles, covered with straw, with an open front serves as a protection from the wind.

Taking the Toll

Germany Must in Due Course Restore Conquered Territory

France paid toll, and paid heavily; but now, after 15 months have gone by for which she paid. Now the weight of artillery is with her. But it is not only artillery. The ordinary citizen in the "conquered" territory of the French soldier, which, combined with his excellent physique, makes his mind and body untired in spite of the tremendous mental and bodily strain of the war that he seems today just as full of energy and even more determined than in the first enthusiasm of the rush into Alsace and Lorraine. Verdun was always the key of the defense of France. In the last few days, after another one of the bastions of that defense, which Germany won in the spring of 1916, have been regained. There is in this the whole hope and confidence of the alliance. What Germany has won and still holds she will in due course be made to restore; that, and more also.—London Times

Minard's Liniment Co., Limited. Gentlemen,—In July, 1905, I was thrown from a road machine, injuring my hip and back badly and was obliged to use a crutch for 14 months. In Sept., 1906, Mr. Wm. A Different Type

Politics Must Be Less of an Exclusive Profession

The truth is that there never was a time when any serious course was more needed than in the present hour, when the anxious suspense of the war and the grinding misery of the sorrow which follows in its train, together with the vast number of problems which are in the melting pot, require the formation of an active and energetic public opinion to help, in due course, towards their solution. "Notwithstanding the need for concentrating on the war," says the Times, "it is not too soon to make up our minds that the men who speak for us in parliament shall consist in the main of a different type from those who predominate today, that politics shall be less of an exclusive profession, and that there shall be no room for the candidate who thinks more of his own career in London than of the interests of his constituents." This is just what we have been waiting for a long time.—Dundee People's Journal.

Minard's Liniment Cures Distemper.

Increase in Live Stock
Alberta's excellent harvest is drawing a large number of landseekers, many of whom are purchasing land with a view to breaking it up next year for crop. The high price of live stock, too, is attracting stockmen from all over the United States to our vacant lands with a view to placing cattle and other live stock upon it. The present indications are that there will be a wonderful increase in live stock during the coming year.

Portugal's Eccentricity

The mysterious case of Portugal is exciting wonder. She has 42,000 soldiers engaged in the war in France, and is training more to send there. Yet she has not asked for an American loan! Possibly it may be an ambition to appear eccentric.—Kansas City Journal.

Ship's Fine Fight Against Plunger

Boatswain of French Vessel Gets the Legion of Honor

The French minister of marine has commended in navy orders the French sailing vessel Kleber, of 277 tons, which on September 7 stood up to a big German submarine off the coast south of Brittany and plied a single gun so well that her opponent retreated discomfited after three hours of stirring battle. Pierre Monier, the boatswain, who fought the ship after the captain of the Kleber was killed, has been decorated with the Legion of Honor while the twelve men of the crew, several of whom were wounded, have been given War Crosses. Seven members of the crew who particularly distinguished themselves also received the Military Medal in addition to the War Cross.

NEW HEALTH FOR WOMEN

The most fateful years in a woman's life are those between forty-five and fifty. Many of the sex enter this period under depressing conditions throughout the system, and about the home, or through a condition in which the blood is weak or watery and so they suffer heavily. Among the commonest symptoms are headaches, feverish flushes, palpitation of the heart, dizziness, backache; depression and other well recognized disturbances of the health which signalizes that the blood requires attention. Women urgently need rich, red blood all their lives, never more so than in middle life, when the nerves are also weak and overwrought.

Now every woman can prove the prompt help afforded to her health by reawakening and building up the blood. It is a test that any ailing woman can make by asking for Williams' Pink Pills, for these pills make rich, red blood, which in turn stimulates the appetite, strengthens the nerves and restores full robust health. Thousands of women have found in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills new health and strength and with them a new happiness and interest in life.

So if you suffer, avail yourself at once of the splendid home treatment which Dr. Williams' Pink Pills so easily afford, and you will be among those who rejoice in regained health. These pills are sold by all dealers in medicine or may be had by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Coal Rations by Ticket

Since September 5 the Berlin householder has one more card to add to the many varieties he already perplex him. Coal tickets now regulate the coal rations. The issue and use of these tickets have pedagogic as well as social-economic advantages in addition to their immediate aims. They are teaching the people arithmetic, method, and thrift for the hard times ahead.

All coal found in any man's cellar beyond his legitimate ration is to be confiscated.

Married Three Birds
The wife of a Methodist minister in West Virginia has been married three times. Her maiden name was Farbridge, her first husband was named Robins, her second husband Sparrow and the present Quail. There are two young Robins, one Sparrow and three Quails in the family. One grandchild was a Swan and another Jay, but her dead son and a bird of Paradise. They live on Hawk avenue, Eagleville, Canary Island, and are all members of the family.—Valley Enterprise.

The Feeding Margin

An Important Factor in Profit From Feeding Steers

The difference between the purchase price and selling price of an animal is called the margin of profit. This is usually estimated on the basis of 100 pounds live weight. Thus a margin of $1.50 means that the feeder received $1.50 per hundred weight more for the animals than he paid for them. The amount of margin is a very important factor in the profit from feeding steers. The margin required to break even in feeding operations depends upon a number of factors, the principal ones being (1) the purchase price; (2) the weight of the cattle when purchased; (3) the value of the feeds used; (4) the gain in weight made by the animals; and (5) the length of the feeding period. The higher the purchase price, the heavier the steer when purchased, the cheaper the feeds, the shorter the feeding period, the smaller the margin may be between the purchase price and the selling price of the cattle without the feeder. With a steer of poor quality and with high-priced feeds, the margin must of necessity be great, but with the best quality of steers and with cheap feeds the necessary margin may be very small.

Autos on Prairie Farms

At different farmers' gatherings in Western Canada this year every convenience at the place was an automobile. In some sections, it is said that every farmer owns an auto. And in Ontario the number of cars owned by farmers is surprising. At York County picnic of the Holsteins, breeders over 50 cars were present and these were not by any means the cheapest types of car either.

Comfort for the Dyspeptic

There is no ailment so harassing and exhausting as dyspepsia, which arises from defective action of the stomach and liver, and the victim of it is to be pitied. Yet he can find ready relief in Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, a preparation that has established itself by years of effective use. There are pills that are widely advertised as the greatest ever compounded, but not one of them can rank in value with Parmelee's.

Building Cargo Vessels

The United States has 1,036 cargo vessels building for ocean traffic. At the present rate of German submarine success it would require nearly two years to sink them all, and that time the shipyards of the allied nations would have launched thousands more.—Toronto Globe.

Anyone Can Do This

Overheated Houses Mean a Waste of Fuel and are Injurious to Health

The fuel administrator suggests that as a measure of economy in the use of coal, Americans reduce the temperature of their houses at least five degrees this winter. The American standard of artificial heating is commonly said to be about 70 degrees Fahrenheit, and this is true in Canada. The English standard is 62 degrees. The complaints of Englishmen in America of overheated houses and the jests of Americans in England at the chills in indoor air are well worn stories. Climatic differences make identical heating standards unlikely and even undesirable. Yet American houses are frequently kept too hot, and not with a temperature of 70 degrees, but 72 and 75 degrees. When Mr. Garfield urges a general reduction of five degrees in the temperature of the average home he asks us to bear no hardship or even discomfort. Most medical authorities would enthusiastically endorse his suggestion on grounds of health alone.—New York Sun.

British Columbia Log Production

The production of logs in the Vancouver district of British Columbia during the month of May was 122,000,000 feet greater than in the corresponding month of last year, says a Vancouver report. There have been marked increases throughout 1917, and the first eight months show a total increase of $4,815,800 feet. According to Mr. Armstrong, secretary of the British Columbia Loggers' association, there is not likely to be a shortage of lumber, although the demand is increasing.

Future Demands Look Good

W. J. Black, Dominion Commissioner of Agriculture, says that since the war began there were 28,000,000 less cattle, 30,000,000 sheep and over 30,000,000 less hogs in the world. The result would be, said Mr. Black, that in the years after the war, the price of meat products and live stock would still remain high. The farmers were not receiving prices out of proportion when compared with prices of other products which the people were buying.

Soldier Priests

More Than 25,000 Priests Fighting in Trenches in France

In France more than 25,000 priests and church students are fighting in the trenches, when they are not ministering to their dying companions in arms. They are serving as common soldiers with knapsack and rifle and their presence heartens the poilus when they go over the top.

"They are not chaplains," says Sterling Heilig, in the New Orleans Times-Picayune. "They are simple soldiers by universal military service law, without choice, in the name of equality. They look like soldiers, they are soldiers, but— a form of equality among the wounded on the battlefield at dusk and murmurs: 'I am a priest. Receive absolution. Be at peace.'"

The writer believes that much of the heroic courage that has been displayed by the French soldier may be traced to the fact that fighting side by side with them are these men of the church.—The Literary Digest.

Public Will Chance It

Eliminating the Opportunity of Making Excessive Profits

What causes popular resentment is not a high price, but the belief that it has to be paid merely to satisfy the greed of some individual and to put money into his pocket. The great merit of the costing system adopted by the ministry of food is that it eliminates the opportunity of making excessive profits out of the public need by reducing the stages through which a commodity passes to those indispensably necessary, and by limiting the cost at each to a fair return for work done. We hope the public will understand the point and appreciate the method adopted to eliminate "profiteering." There is, indeed, a danger that this may be too effectually done and that the mark may be overbought. It is a danger which always attends fixed prices, and it must not be ignored. If prices are so fixed that they do not give a fair return, the inevitable result is that commodities are not forthcoming—London Times.

Worms, however generated, are found in the digestive tracts, where they set up disturbances detrimental to the health of the child. They can be no comfort for the little ones until the hurtful intruders have been expelled. No better preparation for this purpose can be had than Millin's Worm Powders. They will immediately destroy the worms and correct the conditions that were favorable to their existence.

On the British Front

Wonderful Completeness of the Telephone System

In the British army, the engineer regiments are not limited to sappers' work. For instance, the Royal Engineers' Signal Service has charge of the telephone lines that cover northern France. Here is an incident illustrating the wonderful completeness of the system:

A company commander was lying out in No Man's Land on a scouting expedition. He had his field telephone with him, and when he picked up to talk to the headquarters something went wrong, so that his line was connected with the chief central office. Immediately he heard a voice say: "What number were you calling?"

He was so startled that he gave his own telephone number in London. Two minutes later he heard his wife's voice amid the roar of the German guns.—Writer in the New York Sun.

YES! MAGICALLY! CORNS LIFT OUT WITH FINGERS

You say to the drug store man, "Give me a small bottle of freezone." This will cost very little but will positively remove every hard or sore corn or callus from your feet.

A few drops of this new ether compound applied directly upon a tender, aching corn relieves the soreness instantly, and soon the entire corn or callus, root and all, dries up and can be lifted off with the fingers.

This new way to rid one's feet of corns was introduced by a Cincinnati man, who says that freezone dries in a moment, and simply shrivels up the corn or callus without irritating the surrounding skin.

Don't let father die of infection or lockjaw from whitening at his corns, but clip this out and make him try it.

"If you drugist hasn't any freezone tell him to order a small bottle from his wholesale drug house for you."

Claims of Education

War is a great educator. One of the lessons which it has forcibly driven home is the need for the application of science to industry if a nation is to hold its own in the modern world. A transformation has come over the attitude of all classes in the community, and not least the men of science, towards the claims of education.

Whether the corn be of old or new growth, it must yield to Holloway's Corn Cure, the simplest and best cure offered to the public.

Gramophones in the War

Three hundred gramophones are divided among the Canadian troops in France alone. Gramophones will also accompany the United States soldiers, and as a start a New York man has bought seventy-five of them to be sent across to Pershing's men as his personal contribution, through the Y.M.C.A.

Mr. Brad, general manager in Canada of a gramophone company, says that the war has not hit the gramophone industry to any serious extent, and in Canada business has advanced wonderfully. As an instance, last June's sales were 127 per cent. better than those of June, 1916, a record month, when business was 70 per cent. better than it was five years back.

Strange Infatuation

We in America know that the Hohenzollerns are oppressors of the German people. England knows it. France knows it. But in the mind of the average German, taught by the ingenious system of a Prussia that saw the sole salvation of kaiserthum in the socialization of the people for the benefit of the state, the only oppressors of the Germans are England and France and Russia and America. Even here, after being surrounded for a generation by the blessings of democracy, there are creatures who worship, with various degrees of secrecy, the idols of Prussian autocracy.—New York Sun.

Maxim Gorky, who in an eventful career, has been a jack-of-all-trades, trumpet, hewer of wood, and the famous author that all the world knows, is now, unfortunately for his country, a politician and a journalist. The policies of Gorky spell anarchy, Maximilianism, Leninism, anything except national defence. Bourgeois, who certainly cannot be suspected of reactionary tendencies, says that Gorky as a politician is the blindest of the blind and has dealt some terrible blows at the foundations of Russian life.

A Plan to Keep Cabbage

Cabbage will keep in good condition until late in the winter if wrapped in paper and placed on shelves or hung from the top of a cellar. If the main part of the crop is buried in a pit a great deal of labor can be saved by taking out quite a quantity whenever the pit is opened and keeping it by the above method until it is used, when another supply can be taken from the pit.

Find Gasoline in Shale

From the so-called hydrocarbon shales of Colorado and Utah may come gasoline for motor cars. Examination of these shales by the United States geological survey indicate that the distillation of shale from beds over three feet thick in Colorado alone will yield more than 20,000,000,000 barrels of crude oil, from which more than 2,000,000,000 barrels of gasoline can be extracted by ordinary methods. However, there probably will be no shale gasoline manufactured until the present methods of obtaining gasoline make the product so expensive that the big majority of motorists are unable to buy it.

IN TOWN ON NOV. 24th.

The great Canadian Tenor, Redfern Hollinshead, will appear in the Big Hall, Monitor, on Saturday, Nov. 24th. He is accompanied by his brother, Harold R. Hollinshead, and Gerald Moore, the brilliant young English pianist. Redfern Hollinshead is one of the greatest tenors of the day, his voice is superb in quality, being full of emotional fervor and dramatic intensity. Harold Hollinshead is one of the most versatile artists on the concert stage. He is as much at home in his vocal work as in his dramatic numbers. Gerald Moore's talent is remarkable. His ability to combine the gifts of soloist and accompanist make him popular with every audience. Tickets on sale at the Drug Store.

WAGONS! WAGONS!

I have a stock of New Deering
Wagons. These wagons are built strong to stand the rough roads, and are well finished.

Also have a few Deering grain tanks, the best tanks made.
